

09/4/20216

-35-

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system for organizing images obtained from at least one image retaining device having a unique ID. The system includes a computer having database for storing digital images and a management section for managing 5 customer orders and said stored digital images. The management section is capable of receiving and storing said unique ID of the at least one image retaining devices and registering the image retaining device to a customer. The computer automatically associating a particular goods and/or services to images obtained from the at least one image retaining device.

09/4/20216 - 122266